HIGHLIGHTS OF BARCELONA

Don't miss out on Barcelona's wealth of attractions, adventures and experiences

Barcelona has long been the choice destination for the elite seeking a memorable vacation. Sun, sand and a city packed with attractions to suit all tastes, must-see architecture and some of the friendliest people on the planet, Barcelona has it all for the Elite Traveler.

While the city has remained one of the top destinations in Europe thanks to its laid-back lifestyle, range of UNESCO World Heritage sites and proximity to the Mediterranean Sea, the city offers much, much more.

The Catalan capital delights and dazzles in equal measure with its sparkling array of fabulous restaurants and intoxicating nightlife hotspots, many of which are popular venues for the great and the good of the fashion, music and entertainment industries.

It is impossible to discuss Barcelona without mentioning Gaudí, the magnificent architect who managed to leave his mark on so much of the city. However, his works are not the only visual attractions; the city is bursting at the seams with historic and culturally significant sites.

Yet, despite having so much to see and do, Barcelona remains a fantastic city just to stroll around and explore, taking in the sights, smells and atmosphere at your own pace. Where else could you watch market traders cheerfully jostle for trade amongst world-famous architecture amid a vibrant population bathed in Mediterranean sun?

This one-Michelin-starred restaurant is generally considered one of Barcelona's finest. Situated in the newly constructed pavilion adjacent to the hotel's gardens, the atmosphere inside can only be described as elegantly sophisticated, with its soothing color scheme of whites and light cream tones, perfectly complemented by tasteful low-level lighting. The restaurant is intimate, with one dining room with a capacity of 45, another with a capacity of just 18, and a terrace with eight additional tables. Such a setting ensures that your experience in gastronomic excellence is a relaxing one, and as a result of its understated class and fine cuisine, ABaC's reputation among those who prize high class dining is blossoming.

The church of La Sagrada Família is architecture on a grand scale. Construction began in March 1882 from a project by the diocesan architect Francisco de Paula del Villar (1828-1901). At the end of 1883 Gaudí was commissioned to continue the construction of the church, a task which he did not abandon until his death in 1926. Since then the completion of the building has fallen to a number of architects, and work continues to this day. As impressive internally as it is externally, a tour of its interior will not disappoint. The building is in the center of Barcelona, and over the years has become a symbol of both the city and the country's identity. Gaudí himself said: "The expiatory church of La Sagrada Família is made by the people and is mirrored in them. It is a work that is in the hands of God and the will of the people." The building is expected to be completed within the first third of the 21st century.

Opened in 1908, the Palau Música Catalana remains one of the finest concert halls in the world and is a cultural highlight of Barcelona. A UNESCO World Heritage Site, the Palau Música Catalana is one of Barcelona's most outstanding landmarks, and is well worth a visit, even if you are not able to attend one of the famous concerts. However, if you do decide to attend one of the fantastic music shows on offer, then the Palau Música Catalana will provide a top-quality VIP experience, including a special meal in a private area, such as the Lluís Millet Room, or a private concert with gala dinner at the Petit Palau.

There are few things more synonymous with the spirit of Barcelona than the city's football team. The pride of Catalonia, FC Barcelona is one of the finest football teams in the world, and maintains strong links with the city. This gives a unique opportunity for Elite Travelers: the chance to travel as part of the FC Barcelona entourage. Guests will travel to an away game on the private charter plane with the players, spend time with the team, surrounded by the national press, and then attend the game in the evening. Away games take place at a number of fantastic grounds in different cities around Spain. The following morning, guests will travel on the return flight with the players and soak up the atmosphere, whether it be euphoria or disappointment. A great opportunity to find out what it feels like to be a footballer; this is a unique opportunity to travel with one of the world's most high-profile football teams. The football season runs from August until May, with matches usually taking place on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon or evening, although some games will be played midweek.

If it has ever been your ambition to drive a Formula 1 racecar around a Grand Prix track, then LRS Formula can help you fulfill this fantasy. The company gives those with a taste for the faster things in life the opportunity to pilot a wide selection of top-of-the-range race cars around two circuits close to the Catalan capital. As well as a selection of Formula 1 vehicles, Ferraris, Lamborghinis and Porsches are also available on the two tracks, one of which is the Circuit De Catalunya, the F1 racetrack used in the 2011 Spanish Grand Prix.

This unforgettable day begins with a reception and breakfast at the track, before getting kitted out in full racetrack clothing. A briefing and presentation follows, explaining the cars and the circuit, before a trip around the track in a private vehicle, showing you the best way to handle the turns and the location of the braking zones. After the formalities are over it is your turn to take the wheel of an F3 car, get a feel for the track and receive some final advice on the best way to handle your car. Once lunch has been served, the fun really begins as you take to the track for the trip of your life. The combined total of 22 laps may feel like it has passed in the blink of an eye, but the memories of this wonderful event will last long in the memory. The day includes a presentation ceremony, providing you with a souvenir from the day and a DVD with footage from a camera located in the car.

In order to beat the crowds to one of Barcelona's star attractions, start the morning with a visit to Antonio Gaudí's unfinished Sagrada Família, before moving on to Gaudí's Parc Guell to enjoy city views and more unique architecture.

The next stop is Paseo de Gracia, an exclusive boulevard which is home to more of Gaudí's architecture and a range of international design outlets.

Lunch at Pinotxo in the famous Boquería market will give you a taste of real Barcelonan market cuisine. Sitting at the bar and being served by Juan Bayen, whose family has been running the bar for three generations is a real treat.

After lunch, head over to the market to see the mouth-watering display of fish and try fresh, Barcelonan fruit and vegetables.

If you fancy a snack, pay a visit to the Escriba coffee house located in a modernist building next to the market, which serves delicious pastries and cakes.

If you have any energy left, spend the afternoon discovering the historic Barri Gòtic, the Picasso Museum and the local shops in the trendy El Born area, before returning to Hotel Arts for a relaxing massage at the Six Senses Spa on the 43rd floor, overlooking the Mediterranean.

Take the guided tour of "Gourmet Barcelona" including a visit to the Mercado de la Boquería, Gaudí monuments, the Gothic Quarter, the Montjuïc cable car, the Picasso museum, the Modernism Museum, the National Museum of Art Catalonia, art galleries on Moncada and Eixample and the Science Museum. Depending on the date of your stay, you will be able to take advantage of a range of exhibitions and shows held in the city. ABaC can also tailor and arrange tours to suit the specific interests of guests, such as a visit to the Chocolate Museum or the Aquarium, a sunset sailboat trip on the Mediterranean Sea, a trip to nearby Sitges, a small coastal town with excellent golf facilities, and scenic flights over Montserrat Mountain and the beautiful wine-producing region of Penedés.

Another attraction is the historically significant Tramvia Blau, the 'blue tramway', which has been in operation since 1901. It can be taken from in front of the ABaC and runs along Tibidabo Avenue, taking in a significant number of luxurious properties for which the district is famous. The journey ends in Dr Andreu Square where you will have the chance to enjoy drink in the famous Mirablau and Mirabe bars, whose terraces offer spectacular views of the city. The renowned La Venta Restaurant is also located in the Square.

BEST TO DO

Carrer Petritxol: This famous street is a haven for art galleries, however the real reason to stroll down Petritxol, especially in the wintertime, is for the 'churreria'. La Pallaresa has been serving locals with thick, sticky hot chocolate and traditional Spanish donuts since 1940. At the end of Petritxol are the Plaza del Pi and the façade of the Church del Pi. This is a magical area of the city, particularly on Sundays when there is a farmers' market.

Contemporary art: The MACBA museum of contemporary art displays a diverse range of exhibitions, and includes La Central library, which specializes in art books and publications. What makes this museum especially interesting is the flexible area, which displays the best in contemporary art, photography and cinema. Another contemporary art museum, the Centre de Cultura Contemporània de Barcelona (CCCCB) is adjacent to MACBA. Due to Barcelona's vibrant cultural scene, you will find a number of important private art initiatives, including a gallery circuit based on the area around Consell de Cent Street or the Borne neighborhood.

Opera: Liceu – Gran Teatre del Liceu is one of the largest opera auditoriums in the world and a performance here should be on your must-do list for all music and culture enthusiasts.

Café de L'Òpera – Take a break in this 19th-century Parisian-style café. Its murals, iron columns and etched wall mirrors evoke a more elegant age, when waiters with bow ties served you with discreet indifference. It's the ideal spot to sit back, enjoy a quality coffee, and watch the nonstop activity outside the Gran Teatre del Liceu while you wait for the show to begin.

Shopping: Passeig de Gràcia – In addition to being one of the best places to see Catalan Modernist architecture (Casa Batlló and La Pedrera are really worth a visit), this avenue is one of the major shopping streets in Barcelona. All major national and international fashion houses have boutiques on this road, including Adolfo Dominguez, Loewe, Chanel, Yves-Saint-Laurent, Purificación García, Camper, Hermès and Laurel. Foreign brands include Ermenegildo Zegna, Max Mara, Escada and Armand Bassi.

Barcelona is an enormously stylish city, overflowing with fashionable boutiques and chic retailers, particularly on the Passeig de Gràcia, where our hotel is located. In this city, dining and drinking can sometimes be pastimes which occupy the entire day; enjoy tapas in between a slow meander around the city. Evenings can be filled with entertainment, from opera at Gran Teatre del Liceu to the energetic street life of the famous Las Ramblas. Off the main track are many quieter quarters; stroll down these narrow shady streets and you will find the homes and shops of local residents.

What sets Barcelona apart is its proximity to the Mediterranean Sea. The city boasts a lively marina and the beaches are exceptional, dotted with cafés where visitors and locals alike can enjoy refreshments with the sand beneath their toes.

DESCRIPTION

Surrounded by agricultural fields and situated three kilometers from the medieval village of La Selva del Camp one encounters the five-star Hotel Mas Passamaner. This distinguished Modernist building has been catalogued as one of artistic interest and is considered the most emblematic of the municipality.

The original house was built towards the end of the Modernist period and the beginning of the nineteen hundreds by Joan Boqué i Reverter, President of the Cámara de Comercio de Reus. He commissioned Luis Doménech i Montaner, one of the most prestigious maestros in Catalán Architecture, the architect of the Palau de la Música de Catalunya and a contemporary of Antonio Gaudí.

Following the death of the owner and having passed through various hands, in 2001 the Palentine Architect Ángel Garcia Puertas acquired the building which was in need of major renovation. The building's charm completely captivated the architect and the final results of his devotion to its rehabilitation are apparent in every corner. The five-star Hotel MasPassamaner opened its doors in the Spring of 2003.

The main building while having undergone major refurbishment has respectfully retained its original structure. In other areas the incorporation of contemporary and avant guard styles create an intriguing feeling of relaxation and well being.

All the hotel bedrooms and suites bear the name of a Modernist Catalán architect with an brief biography relating to their most important works.

Gaudí's unfinished masterpiece La Sagrada Família is architecture on a grand scale. The construction of the building commenced in March 1882, initially as part of a project by the diocesan architect Francisco de Paula del Villar (1828-1901). At the end of 1883 Gaudí was commissioned to continue the building, a task which occupied him until his death in 1926. Since then a number of architects have taken up the mantle, continuing construction in keeping with his style. As impressive internally as it is externally, it is well worth going inside the building and enjoying the fantastic imagery on offer. The building is in the center of Barcelona and over the years has become synonymous with Barcelona and Spain. Gaudí himself said: "The expiatory church of La Sagrada Família is made by the people and is mirrored in them. It is a work that is in the hands of God and the will of the people." Building work on the 'Holy Family' church continues, and is expected to be finished in the first third of the 21st century.

LAS RAMBLAS

Despite being one of the simplest things to do in Barcelona, taking a stroll along Las Ramblas is one of the most rewarding. Barcelona's most famous street is actually a series of interconnecting roads that stretch 1.2 kilometers through the center of Barcelona, from the Placa Catalunya to Port Vell. What sets Las Ramblas apart is that in a city of small, interconnecting alleys, this wide boulevard has flourished into the focal point of the city for many Barcelonans. Attractions along Las Ramblas include the spectacular La Boqueria, a market place full of culinary delights; Gran Teatre del Liceu, Barcelona's renowned opera house; Font de Canaletes, a fountain and meeting point for urbanites and the Palau de la Virreina, a beautiful Baroque palace. The street entertainers of Las Ramblas have become world famous and often imitated in other countries. These colorful characters are usually to be found standing perfectly still, statue-like; they will spring into life for a handful of change. You can expect to see anything from contortionists to dancers, and these highly accomplished individuals will always bring a smile to the face of the watching crowds. Market stalls selling an assortment of traditional wares line the street, and with coffee shops and tapas bars aplenty, Las Ramblas is the ideal place to relax with a drink and watch the world go by.

The Gothic Quarter of Barcelona is an area steeped in history. Originally dating from the Roman era, many of the buildings in the Barri Gòtic are from the Medieval period. The Catedral de la Santa Creu i Santa Eulàlia, or the Barcelona Cathedral, is one of the many stunning attractions in the area, a breathtaking 15th century cathedral that is particularly famous for its gargoyles. Private guides can be organized through the Barcelona Guide Bureau, an experienced Barcelona tourist agency that will conduct guided tours throughout Barcelona and the surrounding area, and which is happy to arrange private, specialized tours for you and your family.

There are some people who will do anything for the perfect glass of wine, including heading to the bottom of the sea. The Underwater Wine Treasure Dive is one of the more unusual activities in Barcelona and will be a favorite for divers and wine lovers alike. Underwater wineries are few and far between, and Barcelona presents visitors with the unique opportunity to discover one of the finest examples in Europe. A great trip, especially for couples, it includes an interesting history of underwater wine storing, a guide to the aquatic wine cellar, a chance to explore the magical underwater landscape and, of course, a glass or two of the fantastic, unusual wine to enjoy with your evening meal.

WHAT TO DO ► DURING THE NIGHT

When Barcelonans go out at night, they really mean night; restaurants and bars are busiest around 10pm and most clubs do not warm up until around 2am, so if you are heading out, expect to be late, or early, returning to bed.

A CASINO BY THE SEA

In the Port Olímpic next to the iconic Hotel Arts, Casino Barcelona offers a rich gaming universe between 10am and 5am. French and American roulette, blackjack tables, mini baccarat, “Caribbean poker style”, Texas Hold’em and Omaha poker, the very latest in slot machines, restaurants to suit every taste, bars, disco... countless leisure possibilities that will give all our visitors a pleasant surprise.

The extensive slot machine gallery, with interconnecting islands and big jackpots, leads into the main room with the traditional gaming tables, the Gaming Lessons zone, the High Limits and the Poker Place, where cash games and major national and international championships are staged every day.

IN SPRING: POKER

Casino Barcelona becomes the capital of the poker world with the most important competitions: the Full Tilt Poker Series from 20 to 22 May; the World Poker Tour from 23 to 29 May will bring together the 400 best international gamblers and the Unibet Open will be held between 9 and 12 June 2011.

Summer sees the arrival of the top European competition: the European Poker Tour (26 August to 1 September). With 1,000 participants, it is the great festival of poker, which will be held in Barcelona for the seventh year running.

MORE THAN GAMING AT CASINO BARCELONA

The casino’s culinary offer is truly impressive: three restaurants open every day, the Japanese Teppan-Yaki, the Casino’s Mediterranean haute cuisine restaurant and Casino Café, a space in which to savour delicious Spanish tapas accompanied by the best wines from our cellar; the La Brasserie restaurant with an extensive seasonal buffet and live music on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings; a disco for staging live performance and dinner shows, and three bars.

A thousand different stories at Casino Barcelona.

WHAT TO DO ► FEATURED EVENTS

It's not surprising that such a proud sporting nation, currently the football World Cup Champions, should host international sporting events such as the Barcelona Open and the Spanish Grand Prix. But sport is not the only attraction in Barcelona. The city is host to an exciting calendar of festivals, the highlight of which is the Festival of Sant Joan.

Taking place at the Circuit de Catalunya, the race is one of the highlights of the Spanish social season. Those looking to enjoy the race in the most luxurious manner will find the Gold Suite to their liking. In an ideal position, just in front of the pit lane, the pit garages and the main straight, the Gold Suite can host between 30 and 60 people, and along with plasma screens, air conditioning, light panels, carpeted floor and panorama windows, a personalized catering option can also be arranged.

FESTIVAL OF SANT JOAN23 JUNE 2011Website: www.santjoanfestivaldecine.es

It is fair to say that Barcelonans enjoy a festival. During the summer months, the abundance of events dedicated to patron saints, music and dance mean that the city can feel like it is constantly partying. One of the largest festivals is the Nit de Sant Joan, which is celebrated on 23 June, traditionally the longest day of the year. The citizens of the various neighborhoods of Barcelona all take part in the festivities, which are still centered round the pagan idea of celebrating the sun. The celebrations include fireworks, bonfires and pyrotechnics, and the best way to see the festival is to head out into the streets, to witness the ceremonial burning of old furniture and unwanted items. The revelry usually lasts until sunrise the next day; if you're looking to experience a fine Spanish custom, then this is the festival to head for.

TYPICAL OPENING HOURS

Shops are typically open from 9am until the late evening, but many will close for a break in mid-afternoon from 2-5pm.

LOCAL CUSTOMS/ATTIRE

As well as identifying themselves with Spain and Spanish culture, Barcelonans are Catalonians and speak Catalan. Barcelona is typical of Europe in its attitude to clothing, and Barcelonans are generally welcoming and cheerful. In Barcelona, people rise late, take an afternoon siesta, eat an evening meal around 10pm and then begin their evenings.
